Students looking for jobs or volunteer positions while you are in school, please join us at the 2011 Student Job Fair. These employers and their jobs can help with costs of school or provide an opportunity to gain experience in your field. Some positions may qualify for upper-division internship credit. On-campus and off-campus employers, as well as organizations looking for volunteers, attend this fair.

DATE: Wednesday, August 24, 2011
TIME: 10:00 AM – 2:00 PM
PLACE: The Union Ballroom

For more information and to view the list of employers attending, click here.

To RSVP or learn more about upcoming events, please login to UCareerLink or visit http://careers.utah.edu

INTERACTIVE INTERN – RICHTER7
Salt Lake City, UT
Job ID: 41002

SOFTWARE DEVELOPMENT ENGINEER – AMAZON.COM
Seattle, WA
Job ID: 36455

MARKETING SPECIALIST – PROPERTY SOLUTIONS INTERNATIONAL, INC.
Provo, UT
Job ID: 40975

To learn more about these and other great positions, please login to UCareerLink.

A SECRET WEAPON FOR STUDENTS… FROM THE INTERNSHIP ADVOCATE

Over the past couple of months I have been talking with employers who hire students for both internships and full-time positions. These visits have really been quite amazing and I have learned so much about the impressions that today's students are leaving on potential employers.

One of the questions that I ask employers is: “If you could increase just one skill in the students that you interview what would it be?”. The overwhelming response might surprise you. The answer given most by employers was Listening Skills!

Even though the comments from employers varied as to why this was important, the message was crystal clear. When a student transitions from college to the world of work and they are in front of a potential employer, they may be so intent on telling the employer all about them and why they are a good candidate that they are not LISTENING to the needs that the employer has.

Here is a video I would like for you to watch on effective listening skills.

Effective Listening Skills

If you received this email twice, or you wish to be removed from the list, please contact CAREER SERVICES at 801-581-6186. Thank you!